
Expression of Interest Questions

Step 1: The Expression of Interest (EOI)

The purpose of the EOI is to equip Ontario Trillium Foundation (OTF) staff with the information needed to assess your project and group. The EOI is the first step of a Youth Opportunities Fund (YOF) grant application.

Most of the questions are answered by selecting answers from a drop-down list. There are a few narrative questions where you can share details about your group and the work that you have led to date. You will also need to complete and submit a Project Plan and Budget Worksheet as part of the EOI.

OTF staff will review your eligibility, your readiness to do this work, the potential impact of your project, and how well you understand the needs, interests, and experiences of the young people you want to work with.

Step 2: The Grant Application (if shortlisted)

If your EOI is successful, your group will be shortlisted and invited to complete and submit the Youth Innovations grant application with an Organizational Mentor (OM).

At the grant application stage, you will only be able to change or update your responses for questions marked with the following symbol: >>>

A Youth Innovations Scale grant is for more established groups that have already fully tested an idea that has worked over a two-year period and are now ready to scale that idea. If you are not sure which grant type is right for your group, email us at yof@otf.ca.

23. Tell us more about the primary beneficiaries your group will engage through this project. What are their lived experiences? How are they affected by the issues you would like to address? (300 words max.)

Describing the Impact

»» 24. What are the most important changes you expect to see in your selected primary beneficiaries (YOF youth)? Focus on sharing changes that can be achieved through your project activities.

Identify a minimum of three changes, up to a maximum of six.
(50 words max. for each change)

TIP: Each change statement should be clear and concise and should reflect what will be achieved or enhanced as your group delivers your test project.

Some changes can happen almost immediately, and others can take a little longer to happen. Some examples of immediate changes are changes in knowledge, skill levels or attitudes about oneself and others. Other types of changes may take longer.

For example, changes in behaviour, relationships or leadership. Use words such as: increased, enhanced, strengthened, improved, expanded, prevented, reduced etc. After you write your change statements, take a final look to make sure you can achieve all of these through your project activities.

If you are applying to do research, describe both changes that young people will experience through their participation in the research process and the longer-term benefits of this research.

Example: More young people will be able to access community supports that meet their needs. In the beginning they will access services with the support of their mentor but over time they will navigate supports on their own.

Example: Youth-led research into the best ways to support young people transitioning out of care will help to ensure housing and employment services are more relevant and effective, and therefore used by young people.

»» 25. How many youth do you expect to directly impact through the life of your grant?

TIP: Only include the number of youth who will participate in your project activities. If conducting a research project, only include the young people who make up the project's research team (including group members, researchers, analysts, and any youth who plays a consistent and significant role in your research project). Only count a young person once even if you will have multiple touchpoints with them. If approved for funding, this number will be included in the Grant Contract.

Example: You have funding for 2 years. Your project runs on a 10-week cycle. You plan to have 15 youth participate in each cycle. You plan to deliver 2 cycles per year. The number of youth you will directly impact is 60 (15 youth x 2 cycles per year x 2 years of funding).

If you are not sure how to fill this out, review the Sample Project Plan. You can also email us at yof@otf.ca.

»» 28. Complete the Budget Worksheet

Please avoid any quotation marks (“...”) in the Budget fields (including Notes) as the system will not save your work if these are detected. If you are not sure how to fill this out, review the Sample Budget Worksheet. You can also email us at yof@otf.ca.
